PEN AND SCISSORGRAPHS

Orangeburg had a hanging Friday—a negro 18 years old for rape.

The war in the east has not yet been settled, and the Japs still at work on the Russian flanks.

A woman may be afraid of a mouse, but she isn't afraid to boss a man for life who is twice her size.

No man who is ashamed to act as motor to a baby carriage has any business to butt into matrimonial game.

Farmers don't wait too long to put in your peas on stubble land. Some of the best farmers now use a grain drill for putting in their peas and claim they make as much or more than by the old method of putting them in with a turnplow.

Darlington is preparing to give the public an old time celebration on the 4th of July. Horse and cattle show, automobile races, a game of base ball between Cheraw and Fort Caswell and an address by M. F. Ansel of Greenville.

President Harvie Jordan of the Cotton Growers Association wants the farmers over the South to have meetings on the 4th of July and celebrate the day with rejoicing over the redemption of the cotton acreage.

A man in Wisconsin has discovered a chemical from one ounce of which he can make 420 glasses of beer. The closing of all the Dispensaries will not prevent men from getting what they want to drink.

Bennettsville Wants Clinton College.

Since the action of the board of trustees of the Presbyterian College of South Carolina, in the matter of the possible removal of that institution from Clinton, several towns of the state have manifested a desire to secure it. It is a prize worth having—as an up-lifting agency in the progress of any town, and as a paying investment, worth every effort made to get it. A strong desire to secure it for Bennettsville was manifested in an annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Bennettsville Board of Education, held at the location of such an institution in the town a committee was appointed, and subscriptions of $15,000 raised along with a tender of ten acres of land in the most desirable part of town.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the move, but it will not do to stop short of a sum sufficient to insure it. Other towns want it too, and the best offer gets the prize. If the removal of the college has been definitely decided upon, then let every expedient be employed to get it, not let exertions cease till all expedients fail to secure this prize for Bennettsville.

DEATHS' DOINGS

On Monday last June 19th 1905, death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Quick of Smithville township and took there from the gentle spirit of their daughter YANCIE—aged about 14 years. She was a loving, kind and obedient child, a member of the Sunday school and loved to attend. She was buried at the Quick graveyard on Beaver Dam creek on Tuesday and funeral by Rev. M. C. Quick in the presence of a large assemblage of sorrowing relatives and friends. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all who know them.

Serious Accidents.

One day last week Mr. Wiley M. Atkinson had the misfortune to step in a sharp nail that pierced through his shoe and nearly through his foot. He is out again but receiving medical attention.

On Thursday last while handling a pitchfork, Mr. Dave Fowler had the misfortune to lose an eye by having one of the prongs to stick in his eye. The handle in some way got loose and fell in his face. At last accounts he was getting along as well as could be expected from such a painful wound.

A Lodge of Odd Fellows.

An informal meeting of those interested in organizing a lodge of this noble Order in Bennettsville was held Tuesday evening and steps taken to organize early next month. Let the good work go on.

A New Schedule.

The through train from Fayetteville to Sumter began service Monday morning. The night train instead of stopping at Maxton will now go through to Fayetteville. Travelers can go north by Cheraw or Fayetteville. Under this change Captain Campbell runs from Gibson to Fayetteville, and Captain Lucius from Fayetteville to Sumter.

Many of our farmers are planting largely of late corn while others are planning to sow peas for a heavy crop of forage. With a plenty of peavine hay our farmers can put up with less corn.

The Rothschild Rules.

It is a characteristic of rich old men to hand out advice with a free hand. The late Baron Rothschild had a set of rules which he was in the habit of giving to young men who manifested symptoms of a desire to teach him. His advice is given as follows:

Shun liquor.
 Dare to go forward.
 Never be discouraged.
 Be polite to everybody.
 Never tell a falsehood.
 Pay your debts promptly.
 Be honest in everything.
 Be content with what you have.

Do not reckon upon chances.
 Make no useless acquaintances.
 Be brave in the struggle of life.
 Maintain your integrity as a sacred thing.

Never appear to be something other than you are.

Take time to consider then decide positively.

Carefully examine into every detail of your business.

These rules are good from first to last and the young man who will follow them is bound to succeed. They are hard to live up to, but success never comes easy. Only those who work for it attain it. In giving young men these rules, the Baron served them better than if he had given them money.

Story Of A Hymn.

It is said that once two young men in India were gambling one night. They alternately lost and gained and their excitement was intense. At length one of them began to hum a tune.

"Oh, shut up, can't you?" demanded the other, querulously.

"What's the matter with you?"

"You're singing an old Sunday School tune."

"Well that don't hurt you, does it? Go on with your play,"

But the youth arose, threw his cards on the table and declared that he would never play again. He went to his room, and after hours of penitent tears was converted.

The hymn was Phoebe Cary's "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The Greenville Herald is right when it says: "The drinking man, like the cigarette fiend, is put to his trumps to find a job today." And the job he gets is the leaving of better men. There is no good place in the business world for the man who "soaks" or who gets on "periodicals." Reliability is in growing demand.—State.
